METAGAME 2026

A world built to play.

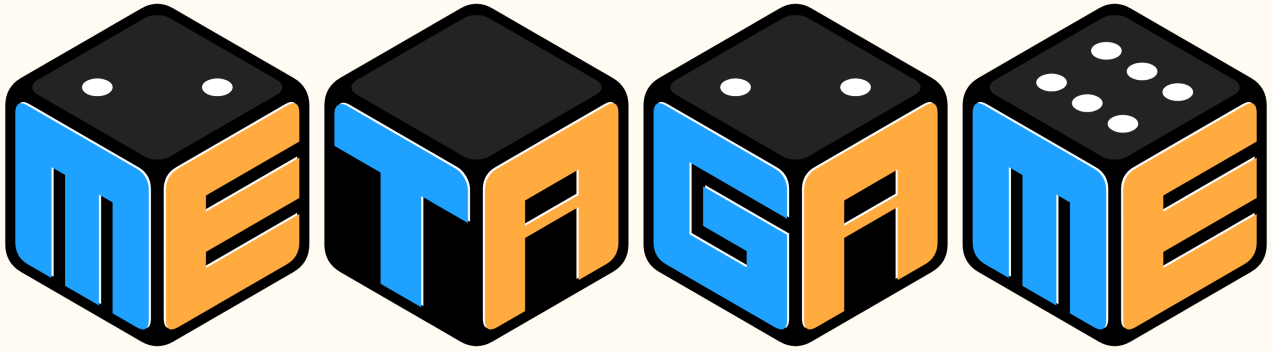

BRAND KIT / WORKING GUIDE

A practical visual and verbal system drawn from the live Metagame website. For event announcements, social posts, partner placements, and print.

NOV 6-8, 2026

Lighthaven, Berkeley, California | metagame.games

01 Identity and voice

Primary mark: four dice spell METAGAME.

Compact mark: single die.

The idea

A gathering for people who make, discover, and play games in the broadest sense: puzzles, tabletop games, LARPs, workshops, strategy, and unusual experiences.

Voice

Curious, specific, welcoming, and a little mischievous. Invite participation. Lead with the game or experience, then provide clear logistics and one action.

Useful copy cues

"I never met a game I didn't like"

"Made by the people who show up"

"Ready to play?"

Typography

Bebas Neue: display headings and punchy labels. Space Grotesk: expressive headings and body. Inter: clean interface copy. Space Mono: dates, eyebrows, utility labels. Roboto: button labels on the site.

Layout language

Use generous cream space, strong navy type, sharp color blocks, and game-like geometry. Let a single large headline or dice mark lead. Use real, candid photos of people playing and making things; favor visible hands, tables, objects, and group interaction.

Contrast rule

Use navy on cream, or cream on navy. Reserve brighter accents for short labels and shapes.

03 Logo and image use

Logo handling

Keep the four-die wordmark intact and proportional. Use the single die for avatars or cramped placements. Allow breathing room of roughly one half die around either mark. Place on cream or a simple light field; check contrast on dark fields.

Photography

Show the range of play: collaborative puzzles, cards, live games, talks, and the Lighthaven environment. Crop around activity, not generic crowds. Avoid heavy filters that hide the game or faces.

Use true event moments as the proof behind the promise.

Partner placement

Use supplied sponsor artwork without recoloring or stretching. Give each mark a neutral, high-contrast field and comparable visual weight within its tier. Logo sizes step down from Gold to Silver to Patron; retain tier labels in sponsor roundups.

Sponsor roster reviewed October 15, 2026. d_model uses its existing supplied logo.

05 Source and usage notes

Quick production checklist

01 Lead with one specific experience or invitation.

02 Use the four-die logo at readable size; use single die for small square formats.

03 Keep event date, venue, and URL legible and current.

04 Use authentic play imagery with permission and proper credit.

05 Keep sponsor artwork original and respect tier hierarchy.

06 Check contrast and export at the target size.

Sources and status

Based on the live metagame.games site and its public website assets/code, reviewed September 28, 2026. Palette values and font families come from the site styles; practical spacing, copy, and placement rules are proposed guidance. Sponsor roster reflects the site source at review time.
